

2024 ISI INSPECTION REPORT HIGHLIGHTS

INTRODUCTION

In January 2024, Mill Hill Schools which includes Grimsdell (Mill Hill Pre-Prep), Belmont (Mill Hill Prep) and Mill Hill School were inspected by the Independent Schools Inspectorate (ISI) under the newly implemented Framework 23, which was introduced in September 2023. This new framework moves away from a one-word judgement system, focusing instead on evaluating pupil experience across the below four core areas alongside Safeguarding which underpins the entire framework.

1. Leadership and management
2. Quality of education
3. Pupils' physical and mental health and emotional wellbeing
4. Pupils' social and economic education and contribution to society

During the inspection, numerous lessons were observed, the inspectors met with hundreds of pupils, as well as a diverse range of teaching and non-teaching staff, along with members of our Leadership Team and Governing Body. Additionally, questionnaires were distributed to parents, pupils, and staff to ensure the views of the whole school community contributed to the outcome of the inspection.

We are incredibly proud of the report, it reflects the variety of strengths across the schools, the excellent provision on offer to all our pupils and identifies our co-curricular provision as an area of 'significant strength', the highest accolade of the new Inspection structure. This term is only used when a school does something truly exceptional, and which benefits all pupils.

OUR CO-CURRICULAR PROVISION HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED AS AN AREA OF SIGNIFICANT STRENGTH:

“The curriculum is complemented by an innovative and well-resourced co-curricular programme, which benefits pupils of all ages and abilities. The programme is wide ranging and well coordinated across the schools to support pupil progression. The co-curricular programme engenders pupils' interests as well as develops pupils' knowledge, skills and understanding. This is a significant strength of the school.”

We were all thrilled to see that our Outdoor Learning, Creative Curriculum and Forest School offerings were all recognised in the report. Our pupils really enjoy and thrive in the safe, happy and kind environment which we create for them. The report highlighted the outdoor opportunities for our youngest children develops resilience and a spirit of enquiry through being immersed in nature which in turn supports children's wellbeing and physical and emotional development. This is all whilst ensuring we offer breadth and academic rigour which builds on the Early Years Foundation Stage and effectively supports the core skills of reading and mathematical development alongside a thematic approach to creativity and independent learning. The report truly brings to life all that we achieve across every aspect of school life and highlights our commitment to all our families that we will develop well rounded individuals who will thrive in their next stage of their education across the Mill Hill Schools and beyond.

At Belmont, we were delighted to see our curriculum innovations such as Future Skills and our outdoor learning provision highlighted in the report. We are also pleased with the acknowledgement of the 'significant strength' of the co-curricular provision in all our schools. The inspection week itself emphasised how all three schools collaborate and share the same purpose; to provide happy, safe and enriching educational environments for our children from ages 3-18. This report provides a very solid platform on which my successor can build to take Belmont onto the next exciting stage of its development.

This report serves as powerful validation of all we do across Mill Hill Schools. We are incredibly proud that our co-curricular provision is described as a 'significant strength'. The breadth of offer to every child enriches their experience and development which in turn benefits their academic performance. In addition to this, we are recognised to meet and, in most cases, exceed all the standard regulations across all areas. The report truly brings to life all that we achieve across every aspect of school life and highlights our commitment to all our families that we are dedicated to developing well-rounded individuals who will thrive not only within our schools but also beyond them.

“Leaders regularly reflect on the success and development of the school and have effective monitoring processes in place. Leaders have an accurate view of school strengths and areas for further development, particularly with regard to academic and pastoral matters. Leaders use this understanding to inform their plans for the school, both in the short and longer term. Governors ensure that the school is sufficiently well resourced for these plans to be executed successfully.”

“Leaders promote a range of strategies to support best outcomes for pupils. These strategies include clear leadership of subjects, implementation of the ‘promoting positive behaviour’ policy, application of the feedback to pupils procedure, and use of engaging and effective teaching strategies. However, the procedure for giving targeted feedback to pupils about their work is not consistently applied across the schools.”

“Complaints are managed appropriately within the timeframes stated in the school policy. Parents receive reports regularly about pupils’ progress and attainment. All other required information is made available to parents, largely through the school’s informative website.”

“The management of risks relating to the school premises and educational and recreational activities is effective. Leaders identify the risks around boarding and the campus and take appropriate decisions to mitigate the possibility of harm. Leaders review risk assessments regularly to ensure that they remain relevant to changing demands. Records kept about accidents are thorough and up to date.”

“The school has an appropriate accessibility plan that is implemented effectively.”

QUALITY OF EDUCATION, TRAINING AND RECREATION

“Teachers are experienced, have good subject knowledge and follow well-planned schemes of work, adapting their teaching to effectively meet the needs of pupils.”

“Leaders provide a comprehensive co-curricular programme which complements the core curriculum for all pupils and adds breadth and depth to pupils’ learning experiences. Leaders adopt a multi-stranded approach to the co-curriculum across all schools, so that new learning builds effectively upon prior learning. The programme enables pupils to develop a wide range of interests to develop their skills and understanding beyond the classroom. Staff closely monitor pupils’ participation in co-curricular activities to ensure that pupils manage their time well and follow up effectively with any pupils who need support.”

“Teachers are experienced, have good subject knowledge and follow well-planned schemes of work, adapting their teaching to effectively meet the needs of pupils.

This supports pupils to focus on continuous improvement rather than relying entirely on grades to reflect performance and achievement. Pupils are keen to push themselves by choosing appropriate challenge levels and enjoy the process of learning.”

PUPILS' PHYSICAL AND MENTAL HEALTH AND EMOTIONAL WELLBEING

“Pupils are confident and reflect on their experiences in school thoughtfully and in a balanced manner.”

“Leaders establish an ethos where the wellbeing of pupils is well supported in a culture of mutual respect for all groups of people. The pastoral system is effective and consequently pupils are willing and comfortable to seek help when required. Senior leaders in boarding have created comfortable and homely environments, with systems in place to support the organisation of boarding which further enhance the wellbeing of boarders.”

“Pupils of all faiths are supportive of the spiritual values of the school and appreciate opportunities for stillness and reflection offered during assemblies and in chapel.”

Children in the early years play outdoors daily and develop resilience and a spirit of enquiry through being immersed in nature. This supports the children’s wellbeing and emotional development.”

“Fully trained and dedicated staff develop effective programmes which ensure that all pupils have access to suitable and regular exercise. Pupils enjoy representing the school in core sports and working on personal fitness programmes.”

“The well-planned personal, social, health and economic education (PSHE) curriculum supports pupils’ wellbeing and develops pupils’ understanding of diversity. The relationships and sex education curriculum and lessons on mental health and wellbeing help pupils to develop their self- knowledge and understanding of others. Wellbeing ambassadors provide appropriate peer support for pupils and older pupils understand that they are role models and embody the values espoused by the school.”

“Staff effectively implement the behaviour policy which inculcates a culture of respect and tolerance for one another. This supports pupils to be respectful of the views and opinions of others.”

“Pupils make age-appropriate and positive contributions to society through their active support of a number of charities and through taking part in pupil-led initiatives.”

“Pupils make age-appropriate and positive contributions to society through their active support of a number of charities and through taking part in pupil-led initiatives. For example, pupils support residents in a local residential home and fundraise for a children’s hospice. Leaders maintain effective oversight of the varied activities which take place.”

“Leaders provide an embedded and stable careers programme, which is largely delivered using an online commercial programme up to the sixth form. Pupils find this useful in identifying their strengths and in suggesting career possibilities. Sixth-form pupils take part in the ‘Futures programme’, which includes a range of guest speakers who help pupils to understand the world outside of the school and to appreciate the life experiences of other people. Older pupils support younger pupils in their transition between the schools which helps them to settle in quickly at their next school.”

“In the prep school, pupils take part in the ‘Future Skills’ programme which effectively prepares pupils for their next steps. Pupils learn about relevant topics of interest such as first aid, careers and managing finances.”

“Leaders promote the values of tolerance, respect and democracy through the effective PSHE programme. Pupils learn about current affairs and social and political issues across the curriculum. This supports pupils in increasing their social and cultural literacy and their understanding and therefore preparedness for life in modern Britain.”

“Pupils enjoy opportunities in the curriculum to develop their financial awareness. For example, pupils deliver a pitch for an eco-friendly game using upcycled materials. In lessons, pupils quickly gain an understanding of complex financial concepts, for example, in a business lesson, pupils learn about inflation, interest rates and currency exchange rates. Pupils reflect on how these topics could affect them as consumers as well as a business operating in the UK. Older pupils understand that economic problems often affect some parts of society more than others, and explore the effectiveness of steps taken by churches and other institutions to confront the issues.”

“Leaders provide an effective framework within which pupils develop a moral appreciation of what is right and wrong. This supports pupils to accept responsibility for their own attitudes and behaviour.”

“Pupils actively take up opportunities across the schools to take on leadership roles which positively impacts the lives of pupils at the school. Pupils appreciate the many opportunities to interact with their peers and celebrate their diverse school community through their everyday interactions and through pupil-led societies. The international element of boarding encourages pupils to mix and integrate with each other through the family system of boarding.”

“Governors conduct an annual audit of safeguarding arrangements and leaders implement any actions arising from their findings promptly.”

“Safeguarding induction and training for staff, including that for the designated safeguarding lead (DSL) and other members of the safeguarding team, are thorough, regular and in line with local requirements. Leaders provide safeguarding updates and scenario-based training for all staff, followed by school generated quizzes to review understanding. Staff understand their safeguarding responsibilities and know how to escalate concerns when required.”

“Leaders are aware of the contextual risks and challenges facing pupils beyond the school and use this understanding to inform staff training and the development of the PSHE curriculum.”

“Leaders provide a number of ways to hear the views of individual pupils. Pupils feel safe in their school and know who they can go to should they wish to share any concerns. The physical and mental health of pupils are given a high priority and effective communication with parents is maintained appropriately.”

“Safeguarding leaders create an open culture of safeguarding across the foundation and those with responsibility for leading safeguarding respond effectively to concerns and report any potential issues appropriately and in line with school policy.”

The nominated governor with responsibility for this area reviews the effectiveness of safeguarding arrangements, including recruitment checks.”

“Pupils understand how to keep themselves safe, including when online. Leaders ensure that suitable internet filtering and monitoring procedures are in place and alerts are immediately reviewed by members of the safeguarding team who take action as required.”
